

GUIDELINES FOR GUEST POST ON LEONARDOVERSE

1. The guest post must be well written with no typo or corrections needed.
2. A maximum of one link and the only keyboard it may contain is a branded name.
3. The article should be unique and not published anywhere else (including your own blog).
4. Somewhere between 500 and 700 words.
5. One tasteful image in the post.
6. One sentence bio for the author to be used as a signature.
7. Share the post with all of your friends via social media as I will do the same.

The website theme is Science Fiction for the Human Condition. Listed below are some suggestions:

1. A commentary on the human condition such as father/daughter relationships, abuse, alcoholism, divorce etc. This does not need to be related to Science Fiction.
2. Using specific examples, how has Science Fiction affected our society? (Science Fiction and racism, what we can learn from Science Fiction, etc. Did Velcro really come from Star Trek? Give us some fun facts.
3. Feel Free to tackle questions such as where Science and Religion converge.

Using the contact form, please provide a post proposal which will include your basic thesis and I'll give you the OK to write it.

There will be no profanity allowed in any posts, period. Although opinions are your own and I may not agree with all of your points, I reserve the right not to publish it if I feel it is too counter to my core beliefs even after you've the written the post. The reason for this is that additional material will be added after the thesis is approved. Don't let that scare you. If it's constructive, chances are I'll approve its publishing.

Above all the posts should be constructive.

Looking forward to reading your posts!
